

Bill Clinton enjoyed a cultural tour through Altos de Chavón, during his visit to Casa de Campo Resort

La Romana City, Dominican Republic. - The ex-president of the United States, Bill Clinton, visited the facilities of Altos de Chavón this afternoon, taking a cultural tour through the Regional Archaeological Museum, Altos de Chavón Church, Amber Museum (fossilized tree resin), La Tienda and artisan workshops, ceramics, silkscreen and fabrics.

Clinton who was accompanied by Jason Kycek Senior Vice President of Sales and Marketing at the Casa de Campo Resort and Rolando González Bunster, Entrepreneur and CEO of InterEnergy and hosts of his visit to Casa de Campo.

In his visit, he shared with the classic artisans vendors who represent the Dominican culture, bought souvenir for his wife, daughter, grandson and friends and finally danced to the rhythm of a "perico ripiao", typical national dance.

The former U.S. president arrived at Casa de Campo Resort on Thursday was welcomed by the president of Casa de Campo, Andrés Pichardo Rosenberg, who gave him a warm welcome to the resort, a paradise destination he has been visiting on several occasions in the last 20 years.

After his arrival, he played golf in the well-known course of the Resort, in the company of his friend and villa owner Rolando González Bunster, Roberto Herrera and Bob Mancini also participated.

At nightfall, he enjoyed a dinner at the SBG restaurant in the Casa de Campo Marina, where he agreed to greet and take selfies with the attendees.

It is no secret that Casa de Campo Resort holds a special place in Bill Clinton's heart and its golf courses. In all the visits he enjoys playing a round of golf in the Teeth of the Dog course, one of his favorite courses, as he has indicated.

Definitely, Casa de Campo is the favorite place for celebrities to spend their vacations.

In addition to Bill Clinton other international political figures have played golf in Casa de Campo, for example: former US presidents Carter, George W. Bush and George Bush Senior, as well as former Canadian Prime Minister Jean Chrétien.
